

SSAA Fundraising Campaign

Helping the McGrath Foundation to help those in need

SSAA National is seeking the support of you, our members, to assist women currently suffering from breast cancer with specialist breast care nurses, particularly in rural regions of Australia.

Talks between the McGrath Foundation and the SSAA were held when Glenn McGrath brought the role of the charity to the attention of the Association soon after his front cover feature story in the Australian Shooter magazine last year.

Glenn's wife Jane McGrath co-founded the McGrath Foundation after her initial recovery from breast cancer. Jane experienced first-hand the shortage of breast care nurses in Australia during her treatment and became determined to help others in her situation.

This is our opportunity to show our generosity both as shooters and as proud members of the SSAA.

As the donations are made to SSAA Inc and will be passed on to the McGrath Foundation once accumulated, donations will not be tax deductible. Should you wish to receive a tax donation you will need to donate directly to the McGrath Foundation. If you choose to do this please let the Foundation know that you are a SSAA member and also write or email us so that we can include the sum in our records.
